

NEW CAFÉ AT HSV BOTANICAL GARDEN

Huntsville, Alabama, Release February 27, 2019: *For Immediate Release

Restaurant Partners, Inc. released today that they will open the Dogwood Café inside the Huntsville Botanical Garden Welcome Center. The Café will open officially March 11, 2019 and be open from 11am until 5pm daily.

Restaurant Partners, Inc. is not new to the Huntsville food scene. They are the proud owners of Grille 29 located in the Village of Providence. The Dogwood Café will be under the Restaurant Partners, Inc umbrella of restaurant concepts and will boast the same quality and attention to detail on the grounds of the Botanical Garden. “With the opening of the Dogwood Café, we hope to have a larger presence with events at the Garden and are looking forward to the opportunity to serve the guests who come to visit this beautiful attraction,” said Regina Burnett, Director of Catering Sales for both Dogwood Café and Grille 29.

The Dogwood Café will feature fresh salads and sandwiches that are perfect for a quick lunch during work as well as a refreshing option for those coming to tour the garden grounds. Max Lane, Café Manager, encourages families to come to the Garden, relax, and know that they will have food options the entire family will enjoy. Group Field Trip lunch options and catering menus are available for events held at the Huntsville Botanical Garden.

Why the name Dogwood Café? Many native Huntsville residents will recall the iconic Dogwood Tree that was a symbol of Community spirit. In 1995, the soon to be iconic 100-105 year old dogwood tree was in peril because of a road-widening project. The community came together to raise funds to move the beautiful white flowering tree to the Botanical Garden where it flourished until a severe freeze followed by drought caused the tree to decay. The tree was removed in 2010, but the community spirit that was started with this effort, is very much alive and well in Huntsville today.
