FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Huntsville Botanical Garden offers free admission November 1

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (Oct. 27, 2026) – On Sunday, Nov. 1, 2026, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Huntsville Botanical Garden (HBG) invites all garden lovers, plant aficionados, nature enthusiasts, and curious visitors to enjoy free Garden admission.

"The Garden belongs to this community, and we're grateful for the many ways our neighbors support our mission throughout the year," said HBG CEO Susan L. Wagner. "This is our opportunity to give something back by inviting everyone to experience the beauty and restorative power of nature. Whether you're visiting for the first time or returning to a favorite spot, we hope you'll take this opportunity to slow down, explore, and discover something wonderful at the Garden."

Adding to the day's activities, the Wintergreen Holiday Market will also be taking place at the Garden on Nov. 1 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Back for its second year, this festive indoor market brings together local and regional artisans, makers, and bakers for a naturally delightful day of holiday shopping. While admission for the Garden is free that day, entry to the Wintergreen Holiday Market is $5 per person.

With Galaxy of Lights right around the corner and the Garden closing earlier in the day to accommodate the light show, this free admission day will be one of the last opportunities of the year to enjoy a full day of regular operating hours at the Garden.
